Fairways Resident Recalls WWII Experiences

Like millions of others with wartime stories to tell, Fairways resident Jack Hennessy has one of his own. His military service began in 1942, the year he enlisted in the Army and joined the 101st Airborne Division in the 327th Glider Infantry Regiment. Jack completed his basic training at Ft. Bragg, NC.

Jack spent over three years in the same regiment where glider training was a requirement. This took place in the United States, England and Austria. Gliders were used to transport allied troops into battle during the invasions of Normandy and Holland.

Since Jack was the record-keeper for his company he did not participate in the invasions. During the latter stages of the war he briefly saw front line service on what he refers to as "the other side of the Rhine River" opposite the German city of Dusseldorf.

Following WWII in early May 1945, Jack was stationed in Berchtesgaden, Germany where he took many pictures of Hitler's home as well as those of his top generals. One of his favorites is this exterior view of Hitler's "Eagles Nest" mountain retreat.

While Champion Hills Country Club's ninth hole looks bleak and foreboding now, golfers are already counting the days until play begins in the spring. Happy days are ahead as paddle tennis courts and a swimming pool are added to the list of amenities already enjoyed by our members.

New Director Named at Erie Station Legacy

Paul Ryan has been named executive director of our Erie Station Legacy, succeeding Kathy Hill.

His diverse and interesting background includes 34 years of service as a clergyman. In addition Paul possesses well-honed skills in both business and marketing. Paul's last assignment was at St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Parish in Hamlin from which he retired in 2004. He has been on the job here since September 15th. A long time advocate for seniors, Paul has also been a part owner and instructor in a North Syracuse diving facility. Three years ago he was married. He and his wife, Brigid, live in Henrietta.

Paul earned a Bachelor of Arts Degree with a major in Philosophy and Sociology from St. John Fisher College and a Master of Divinity and Theology degree from St. Bernard's Seminary. He has seen service in several parishes in the U.S., Latin America, Mexico and Brazil and considers our Legacy staff and residents to be "a gift and a blessing to all of us." ■

Champion Hills Country Club and Midtown Athletic Club Join Hands

If ever there was a "Win-Win" situation, the recently announced reciprocal agreement between Champion Hills Country Club and Midtown Athletic Club have the right to that claim.

Exciting things await CHCC members at Midtown. They will have free access to a number of services during matinee hours. The agreement is similar to the one negotiated with Bristol Harbour that allows members of each club to utilize golfing and other privileges available at either location at minimal cost.

Fairways Resident

One of his more distasteful recollections occurred during the winter of 1944-45 which was spent in tents in fields near the French city of Rheims.

Once the war was over, Jack was 2 honorably discharged from the service and took advantage of the G.I. Bill to attend, and graduate from, Syracuse University where he majored in finance. Jack and his wife, Veronica, were married in 1951. They have four adult children and 10 grandchildren.

Jack's career in finance included executive positions with Stromberg-Carlson and Marine Midland Bank (now HSBC) from which he retired in 1987.

A month ago Vonie suffered a stroke and is receiving full-time care in a nursing home. Although Jack lives alone now, he visits his wife regularly and continues to enjoy his apartment and the companionship that exists among Legacy's many residents. ■

Staff PROFILE

June Borreggine, Salon Services

In this issue of Legacy Living we profile another one of our outstanding employees. June oversees salon operations at all Legacies and is devoted to her job of helping residents look and feel their best.

Even as a teenager at Jefferson High School, June Borreggine knew what she would like to do with the rest of her life. One semester in a secretarial class was enough to convince her to look elsewhere in pursuit of a more satisfying career ... one, she says, "that didn't require a lot of sitting still." Upon her graduation from high school, June had earned both a diploma and her beautician's license. A career was in the making.

June's first real fling at this occurred 10 years ago when her sister, Carol DiMarzo, invited her "to help out and be a hostess at our first Legacy at Willow Pond in Penfield." The Retirement Community had opened just before Christmas and had residents eager to look their best for the holidays.

Today, each Legacy has its own salon run by independent contractors. June oversees all of them.

Aside from that, she has been active in her church, Bethel Christian Fellowship, and has taught bible study classes at two of our Legacies. Besides that, she has done some missionary work in Africa, Israel and Honduras.

June and her late husband, Joseph, have three grown children and six grandchildren. For the past four years she's been living in a villa at our Clover Blossom Legacy. Thoughtful and considerate, she takes this opportunity to "wish everyone a blessed holiday season and a Happy New Year!" ■

Seminar for Seniors Slated for January

Services are held every Sunday morning in Cranberry Landing's multi-faith chapel. Similar facilities exist in all seven of our Retirement Communities.

Legacy residents are continually exposed to "innovative programs that stimulate, entertain, and delight our residents" according to Corporate Vice President of Marketing Don Riley. "The latest," he says, "is the upcoming Seminar on the Spiritual Life of Seniors to be held sometime in January at our Fairways Legacy in Victor." Still in the planning stage, the agenda will include a working lunch, several speakers and presenters, a convocation, and liturgy.

Addressing this important aspect of a senior's life, Riley went on to say, "that we offer and encourage spiritual growth and renewal in our communities. Each has its own interfaith chapel and a chaplain whose services are available to Legacy residents and their guests." ■

Membership Recruitment Rewards Offered

Could you use an extra $250.00? That's how much you'll get for each charter referral member at Champion Hills CC. Golfer referrals receive $150.00 apiece. Six holes were available for play this past summer and all nine holes will be ready to play sometime during the 2010 golf season.
